

Invitation to the ClubConnect Event

Wednesday 24th November 2010

EVENT

- Meet people who speak your language
- Gain business contacts
- Enjoy relaxed good company
- Expand your industry knowledge
- Develop potential future business

Institute of IT Training

All the world's a stage.....

Hello to all the existing ClubConnect members and I am please to welcome many new ones!

ClubConnect exists as a place where likeminded business people can come along and share their experience and knowledge with others in the same sector.

Primarily we are all connected through Change and Training enterprises. This could be as project managers, change managers, L&D/Training managers or trainers.

Software tools and project enablers form a big part of our discussions and we will always be ready to demonstrate Assima's latest tool sets designed to improve business performance.

We can all enhance our

Andy Campbell

knowledge of the marketplace and get feedback on current trends and initiatives both from our industry expert speakers and through sharing our collective experience.

Come and join in with some very interesting people for an informal social gathering, a drink and light buffet at our next event.

The 'Swan Inn' is attached to the 'Old Globe Theatre' (in the round).

It is important that you RSVP to me (Andy Campbell), to ensure sufficient drinks and pies (very Northern I know) are supplied.

Guest speaker: Don Taylor

Learning in Business: The New Frontier

The increasing pace of process and technology-led change, to say nothing of global recession, has not only radically changed the way organisations work, but also how they learn. Don Taylor identifies the latest thinking and best strategies to meet the key challenges to learning for business today.

Don Taylor is a respected Learning Industry commentator as well as a veteran of the learning, skills and human capital industries having worked in organisations at every level over the past 25 years. In his roles as Chairman of The Learning and Skills Group, The Learning Technologies Conference, The Trainers Conference and The Institute of IT Training Don works alongside those at the forefront of the latest and best thinking within the learning industry.
